The Inter-mountain and Colorado Catholic is placed on sale at the James Clark house, 511 California street, Denver, Colo.

he Patriarch of Denver Diocese Dead.

Father Gabriel Ussel, for fifty-four years a priest of the Catholic church, and for over fifty-two years a worker for the spiritual advancement of Colorado, closed his eyes in the sleep that knows no awakening on Sunday, Oct. 17. Death found the minister of the gospel in his chair at work. Though illness had been gradually breaking down what had been a strong constitution, Father Ussel refused to give up, and although he could no longer actively look after his parish, he directed its care and insisted on being allowed to move about his home and to read and write as usual.

Walsenburg, Colo., had been the scene of Father Ussel's labors during the greater part of his life. It was there that he died. It was there that his funeral occurred on Wednesday, it having been a request of the priest that he be laid to rest in his church. His congregation concurring in this request, it was granted, and instead of being buried in Mount Olivet cemetery, where for years the priests of the diocese have been interred, he was given a grave in the Catholic cemetery at Walsenburg.

Even when the infirmities of old age came upon him, Father Ussel did not lose a spirit of patience and amiability which endeared him to all. He scorned the ministrations of nurses and physicians, and the greater part of the care of him was taken by Father M. Bertman, a young priest who for some time was assistant pastor.

Father Ussel came to Denver with Right Rev. Joseph P. Machefaut, the first bishop of Colorado. In fact, it was he who said the first mass in Colorado after the visit of Coronado. That service was at Walsenburg. Father Ussel was a Frenchman and came from a district in France close to where Joseph P. Machefaut was born and educated. The two came to America together, but Father Machefaut went to Ohio to work and Father Ussel went to Santa Fe. Later, when Father Machefaut became bishop of the Denver diocese, he was given Father Ussel by Archbishop Lamy of Santa Fe. Father Ussel's first post of duty was at Walsenburg. He was never removed. In 1896 he took up his duties there. In 1900 he laid them down. A few years ago all of the priests of the diocese united in a celebration of Father Ussel's golden jubilee. They wanted to make a purse for him, but this matter was discouraged, it being known the money collected would only pass into other hands. Father Ussel was supremely unselfish. He divided his all with the poor members of his flock. For that reason his brother priests presented him with an ostensorium, which he kept for his church.

The Walsenburg church, by the way, is one of the handsomest in the state. It was built through the efforts of Father Ussel. His dedication was an event in the diocese of Denver. Walsenburg looks after innumerable missions, some of them many miles away, but all of these little stations were found to be in a flourishing condition at the time of the pastor's death.

The funeral of Father Ussel took place on Wednesday of this week. Right Rev. Bishop Matz officiating, chap Matz paid a high tribute to the life of the deceased. Father Ussel stood constantly by his bishop and was respected for zeal that has never been eclipsed. Many of the Denver priests went down to attend the funeral service. It was an impressive occasion. Protestants uniting with Catholics in showing respect for a man whose life was consistent with his preaching, and who survived the storms of pioneer days to be a spiritual builder for a great empire.

Church Notes.

Bishop Matz has returned from St. Ignace, Colo., where he went to administer confirmation.

The Sunday evening services have been resumed at Logan Avenue chapel. The boys' choir, under direction of Father Francis McEgan, began its work for the winter last Sunday evening. On that occasion Father M. W. Donovan, formerly associated with the cathedral, preached a sermon on "The Conflict Between the Material and the Spiritual in Man." There was a splendid attendance.

Of late years the Young Women's sodality of the cathedral parish has furnished to various religious communities more young novices than all of the other parishes of the city combined. This fall five more are to be added to the list. Perhaps the greatest surprise attending the announcement that Miss Mayme Barry will go into the Dominican novitiate in December of this year, Miss Barry has been president of the sodality, and in that capacity did much for the growth of membership and in zeal of that organization. She is an exceptionally attractive young girl, clever and interesting, with a tremendous capacity for pleasure combined with deeply religious views. Her influence on her associates has been marked. This summer just passed she gave up to working for the cathedral building, and among the members of the congregation soliciting subscriptions toward the erection of the church. It was not pleasant work, but Miss Barry gave of her time willingly, and being of a cheerful disposition, was welcomed in many homes where the mere thought of a "collector" is not exactly mirth-provoking.

Miss Barry goes next Monday to Pittsburgh for a visit with her relatives. She expects to go into the Dominican novitiate at St. Ignace, Wis., on Dec. 8, the feast of the Immaculate Conception.

Miss Mary Tracy, who has also served the Young Women's sodality in the capacity of president, has gone to Cincinnati at St. Joseph's. This is the order which furnishes teachers to the Immaculate Conception school. Miss Tracy has been employed in the local telephone office for some time, and the Catholic girls who work under her have a unique "show" for her last week at her home, 2016 Downing avenue. They presented her with the things that she will need in her new life, the little trinkets that she may carry with her to the convent.

Miss Tracy, too, was exceptionally popular among the young folks.

A "show" for Miss Barry was given at her home on Tuesday evening of this week by the sodality members.

Miss Ella Melvin, a sodality of Logan Avenue chapel, too, and associated with Miss Tracy and Miss Barry for the last few years, goes within two weeks to St. Ignace, Wis., to become a Dominican nun.

This fact speaks well for the spiritual growth of the cathedral parish.

Father John Belser, chaplain of St. Anthony's hospital, and vice of the cathedral parish, has given it such an excellent footing that its spread has been rapid, it is to direct the junior division of that organization for the cathedral in addition to his duties at the hospital. Father Belser has always been greatly missed by the boys and young men that he banded together a couple of years ago, and so he yielded to the invitation of Father H. L. McMenamin, the pastor of the cathedral, to come back to them at intervals to sort of keep an eye on their progress. The junior division was reorganized at a meeting held Monday evening at the parochial residence, 1834 Grant avenue, and several applications for membership were received. It is expected that the inspiration of Father Belser's direction will assist in the growth of the organization.

Father J. F. McDonough, assistant pastor of the cathedral, returned on Wednesday from a visit to his home in New England.

Mother Bulalia, in charge of the Dominican convent attached to St. Dominic's church in North Denver, went to Sinsinnewa Mound to attend the funeral of Mother Emily, the superior general of the order, who died there last week. Mother Emily had been fifty years in religion, having entered the convent at the age of 16 years. Her first long dress was the garb of a nun. For forty years she had acted as superior of the great order.

Cornelius Keefe, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Keefe of 1601 York street, was baptized at Logan Avenue chapel last Sunday afternoon.

Another baptism of Sunday last was that of Katherine Edna Webster, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Webster.

Mrs. Emily Brandt, one of the soloists of the cathedral choir, which is conducted by Professor Joseph A. Michel, is to sing in the production of "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief," which will be given at the Auditorium Oct. 29 and 30. Mrs. Brandt's voice is of rare quality, and she displayed dramatic talent as well in "Tannhauser," in which she sang at the Auditorium in the late spring.

Forty candidates were initiated into the Knights of Columbus at Cripple Creek last Sunday at elaborate exercises which attracted a large crowd from Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo. The first and second degrees were conferred by the Victor and Cripple Creek council, while State Deputy M. W. Purcell of Colorado Springs gave the third, assisted by the degree teams from Denver and Colorado Springs.

Miss Katherine E. Kelly, the attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelly of 1944 Logan street, has gone to Pennsylvania to spend the greater part of the winter with relatives.

Mrs. Patrick Mulrooney of 1206 Seventeenth avenue left last week with her youngest daughter, Anna Marie, to spend a few months at Mobile, Ala. Her daughter, Mrs. Benedict Baker, has assumed charge of the family home during Mrs. Mulrooney's absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelly were hosts at a dinner Saturday evening in honor of James Kelly of Princeton, N. J., who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly for some weeks. Gathered about the table were Mr. and Mrs. John A. Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Keene, Mr. and Mrs. Benedict J. Baker, Miss Margaret McCue, Miss Sadie Mulrooney, James Kelly, William Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelly.

The senior football team from the College of the Sacred Heart went to Longmont last Saturday for a match with the Longmont High school team. They were defeated, some of the S. H. C. players having been knocked out in a practice game. The junior team, though, scored handsily over the Longmont team on the same day.

Mrs. Charles L. Kirk and her niece, Mrs. Irene Hartford, have gone to California for the winter.

Mrs. Jeffrey Francis Keating and her sister, Miss Tillie Shevlin, spent a few days at Colorado Springs last week.

Miss Tillie Shevlin, president of the Wednesday Afternoon Literary club, entertained that organization at her home, 1261 Pennsylvania avenue, on Wednesday of this week. The papers for the year were assigned.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacAllister Wilcox of the cathedral parish left this week for New York City, to sail later for Europe.

Mrs. Peter Karp and her four-year-old son have returned from a six months' visit with Mrs. Karp's parents in Germany. The Karp family is prominently connected with St. Elizabeth's parish.

Charles H. Schlacks, vice president of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, has gone to New York City.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians gave a card party and dance Friday evening at 221 Charles block.

John H. Reddin is in New York City on business.

Miss Myrtle Dolan, a bride of this month, is the inspiration for considerable entertaining these days. Mrs. Frank Kelly, Mrs. William A. Grainger, Mrs. Charles Burdett and Mrs. George Prior gave a linen shower for her Saturday, Oct. 16, at the home of Mrs. Prior, 125 Pennsylvania avenue. There were seventy-five guests, and much was the game played. Halloween decorations were used in making the house additionally attractive.

Wedding Bells.

Miss Frances L. Connolly of Colorado Springs was married last week to Chester Horn, Father William O'Ryan officiating. Mrs. Horn is the daughter of Mrs. Kate Connolly, and formerly taught school in North Denver. Miss Margaret Gavin was bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Horn left after the ceremony for a short honeymoon and will make their home at Colorado Springs.

At the Church of St. John the Evangelist in Herman last week, Miss Lottie M. Rauch became the bride of Thomas F. McCullin, Father Charles Carr officiating. The groom is a resident of the school at Sinsinnewa Mound, Wis., and Mrs. McCullin is the daughter of the bride's uncle, M. B. Knerr, 424 Clark street. After a month spent in travel, Mr. and Mrs. McCullin will make their home in Denver.

On Monday evening, Oct. 18, Cullen court No. 201 of the Knights of Catholic Order of Foresters entertained at a card party at the hall at 325 Charles building. It was largely attended.

The Sacred Heart Aid society's annual ball to be given at El Jebel temple, Eighteenth avenue and Sherman street, on the evening of Wednesday, Oct. 27, promises to be an unprecedented success. Mrs. Joseph Walsh and Mrs. Joseph Omer have taken charge of the supper arrangements, and Mrs. William F. Hynes will preside at the punch bowl. Mrs. Frank Kirchoff, chairman of the ball committee, and Mrs. M. McCue, president of the Aid society, declare that from the sale of tickets the charity ball will be a splendid financial success. The proceeds of the entertainment will go, in addition to the charity work which the Sacred Heart Aid society does throughout the year among people who are reached in no other manner.

Mrs. Thomas J. McCue entertained the Queen of Heaven Aid society on Tuesday, Oct. 19, at her apartments in the Seville, Seventeenth avenue and Franklin street. Returns from the picnic given in August were made, indicating that the society did financially well in its efforts to interest the public in the little Italian orphan cared for by the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart at the Regina Coeli homes in North Denver. This is a new society, but it is growing.

The local Knights of Columbus helped materially at the Elks' fair given during this week at the Auditorium. In fact, every one who is at all public spirited entered into the arrangement with a splendid fund would be at the disposal of the lodge No. 17, B. P. O. E., for the philanthropic work which that organization is constantly engaged in. Joseph Newman, the secretary of the Elks, the entertainment features, and Samuel Young also had charge of an interesting part of the program. The Fluffy Ruffles dance that the Knights gave at their minstrel show last June, and the College Boy songs, which were included in that pleasing entertainment, were repeated, the participants being Harry McCabe, John Ryan, William Fox, Robert Sullivan, P. F. Gilmarin, William Flinnerty, Charles Menk and John Thunarm.

Personal.

As a little tribute of the high regard in which the organization holds him, the Democratic club last week presented Patrick B. Riordan with a handsome gold watch, fob and chain. Mr. Riordan is called the "perennial treasurer of the Democratic club," but he is also treasurer for all of the charity balls and given by the various aid societies of Denver. His services have never been denied the committees getting up entertainments for charity. This same willingness to work has characterized his connection with the political organization. That the recent Democratic picnic was a success to the extent of realizing $8,300 for the club is largely due to Mr. Riordan's efforts. The organization recognized this fact and gave him the watch as a material evidence of that appreciation. The charm is a fourth degree Knights of Columbus symbol done in gold. Benjamin Woodward, vice president of the club, made the presentation.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hesse of 1753 Franklin street are happy over the arrival of a baby daughter at their home last week.

Miss Cecil Monarch of the cathedral parish was hostess at an attractive card party given on Wednesday, Oct. 20.

Obituary.

Albert P. Shouten, one of the most enthusiastic members of the Holy Name society of the cathedral parish, suffered instant death last week at his work in the Burlington railroad yards. Young Mr. Shouten was checking up the cars, as was his usual routine duty, when he fell beneath a moving switch engine. The accident occurred at Eleventh and Wewatta streets in Friday afternoon.

Mr. Shouten had been in the employ of the Burlington about five months. He had only recently come to Denver. The family home is at Allis, Wis., where the father, Peter Shouten, heard of the accident through a telegram sent by Father H. L. McMenamin, the young man's pastor. The body was sent to Allis for interment in the family lot. Mr. Shouten was 21 years of age and unmarried. He was a zealous member of the organization of young men which is connected with the cathedral, which has done much toward accomplishing the spiritual good of the congregation.

Mrs. Mary MacAllister Wilcox, the cathedral parish, while on a visit to Indianapolis, died suddenly last week. Prayers were requested for the repose of her soul last Sunday in Logan Avenue chapel. Mrs. MacAllister was the sister of H. W. Switzer, a well known member of the cathedral congregation.

The interment of Mrs. Mary L. Wagner was at Mount Olivet cemetery last week. Mrs. Wagner was the mother of Mrs. Louis VanHille of 3016 Franklin street, and an estimable and well-liked woman.

Miss Nellie Baudendistel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baudendistel of 183 East Thirty-sixth avenue, was buried from Annunciation church on Monday.

The old pavilion belonging to the Eagles is being pulled down, and though it gives a passing sight to the memory of the joyous times passed under its roof, and the glorious moonlight dances which the Eagles gave in the heyday of its existence, still when one realizes that the removal of the building is necessary to mark place for a mining hotel, which is significant of the business of the camp, one realizes that "business before pleasure" is the energetic slogan of the volunteers of all who have taken their faith and force in this desert country, and many are the wishes of success for Thomas J. Lynch, who has secured a lease on Old Fraction, the ground covered in part by the Eagles' pavilion.

A large party of Tonopah people accompanied the base ball team to Las Vegas last Sunday. Many went to secure land in the Las Vegas valley which is to be irrigated by artesian wells, a number of which have already been sunk, the deepest of which is 450 feet.

The ladies of the Sanctuary society are planning an anniversary ball on the night of Oct. 29. A good time is assured for all, as the ladies are noted for their pleasant entertainment.

Supper was served the bride party at the residence of Mrs. F. J. Leary, after which an automobile trip was made to the Nine Mile. Returning about 9 o'clock, a reception was held at 408 West Virginia street, at the cozy little home Mr. Sullivan fitted up for his bride. The bride was attired in a beautiful cream colored satin dress made in princess and trimmed with rare old Irish lace; she wore the conventional veil and carried a bouquet of white roses and evergreens. Miss Crowley was attended by Miss Abbie Shea, who wore a shower of pink and white roses. A best man was M. J. Jernigan. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan have many friends, who wish them happiness on their journey through life. The wedding presents were numerous and costly.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan will be at home to their friends after Oct. 17 at 408 West Virginia street.

The Art of Price Making.

(Bangalore Indentors' Guide.)

I asked a young business man in Commercial street the other day that in order to make a profit of 20 per cent how much will he have to add on Rs. 100. He answered with a skimming smile and triumphantly, Rs. 20. I asked him to apply the mode of reasoning by which he had reached the conclusion to the figures before him and see if it would work, and his surprise, when he found it wouldn't, was great.

To figure the profit on any article correctly, subtract cost from the selling price, divide the result by the selling price and the result will be the true profit. Thus: Cost, Rs. 10; selling price, Rs. 15; profit, Rs. 5; and Rs. 15 is contained in Rs. 5, 333 times, showing a profit of 33 1/3 per cent and not 50 per cent. The same calculation applies to marking so many per cent discount on your clearance sale.

For the benefit of those whose heads are rather thick, I give the following short and simple way by which goods can readily be marked at any of the percentages common to business:

To make a profit of 16 2/3 per cent add 20 per cent to cost.
To make a profit of 20 per cent, add 25 per cent to cost.
To make a profit of 25 per cent, add 33 1/3 per cent to cost.
To make a profit of 33 1/3 per cent, add 50 per cent to cost.
To make a profit of 50 per cent, add 100 per cent to cost.

Figure your percentages during your clearance sale according to the above table and you will never be lost.

(New York World.)

Some important facts and figures may be gathered from Dr. Neff's report on typhoid fever conditions in Philadelphia, showing a remarkable decrease in the number of cases of that disease since the partial introduction of filtered water in that city.

In the year 1906, when only a small part of the city was supplied with water from the filtration system, there were 8,721 cases. In the following year, when the area covered by the filtration system had been considerably extended, there were 6,721 cases. Since that year and with the constantly increased extension of the area served with filtered water there has been a notable decrease in the cases of this disease, the number of 1908 being only 3,542, or only a little more than a third as many as in 1906, which was a record year. For the past six months of the present year there were only 1,354
